

Stronger Together – Social Issues

As we have forged through the COVID-19 crisis over the last few months, it has been our goal that the messages of #StrongerTogether project unity – that JNA is one team united against an enemy we could not see. Unlike COVID, we are again faced with an adversary but one that we can see – it is on the news, in our social media timelines or we have felt it ourselves – this time it comes in the form of social injustice and inequality.

The tragic death of George Floyd and actions following have created another difficult time within our nation, one that brings long-standing injustices to light once again. The JTEKT Way is founded on the principle of respect, with no tolerance for injustice or inequality. Regardless of race, gender, religion, sexual orientation or other differences that make each one of us unique, every person deserves to be treated with respect and human decency. Now more than ever, it's important to remind ourselves that these differences do not divide us, they only make us stronger.

Our commitment to you is to always treat every associate with respect, to protect your safety and provide ways to unite us as a work family. As we each manage our emotions and actions during this time, we implore each of you to express any views you may have with respect and tolerance of differing opinions, just as we always have done.

JNA is committed, as it always has been, to being a socially responsible organization and we want each of you to know we are in this together. We are #StrongerTogether
